

Project of the Year Award

The Section will consider applications for the Project of the Year Award for projects that are completed or very nearly completed that are located within the physical boundaries of the Met Section. The submitting firm or agency has to clearly outline in the application what the transportation significance of the project is and/ or what their specific transportation planning /engineering contribution was in the overall project's success. A large project can be considered that has transportation significance, as well as the unusual transportation elements that contributed to a multi-disciplined infrastructure project. But in any case, the applicant has to have had a primary role in either the overall project or the specific transportation contribution to be considered valid and it all must be clearly described and rationalized in the application submittal.
